WILL ASK BOARD FOR REVOCATION

"Dry" Workers Intend to File Motion
Before Commissioners to Revoke
Seward's Saloon License.

ON THE HEELS OF DISCLOSURE

Attorneys Comment Freely and Say
Proprietors Are Liable Under
"Blind Tiger" Act.

GOV. LICENSE NO PROTECTION

Lawyers Recall Proctor Law Provides
For Revocation if Applicant
Makes False Affidavit.

Since the appearance last evening of the story concerning the operation of the new saloon in Second street by Basil Seward, William Denny and Curt Evans under two different names, local attorneys have commented freely on the law violation. It has been shown that a city, county and State license was taken out under the name of Basil Seward and the government license under the name of Seward & Company.

Attorneys point out that the three owners of the saloon are operating a "blind tiger" pure and simple. They say that any person could go into a justice of the peace court, file and affidavit against the owners charging the operation of a "blind tiger" and a constable would be compelled to close the saloon and confiscate the liquor on sale there.

This is cited by attorneys to come under a law passed by the legislature of 1907. This law provides that the holding of a government license does not protect the seller of liquor from penalty inflicted by the State, county or city. The introduction of prime officio evidence is all that is necessary to convict in such cases, attorneys say.

All that needs be done, in other words, is to show that a liquor dealer has been selling without a State, county or city license and expected to be protected by a government license. Attorneys point out that Judge Anderson of federal court in Indianapolis recently sent a man to the federal prison for a term of years for a similar violation.

It is cited in this case that the proprietors of the saloon might not as well have a State, city or county license as it is of no use because they were not taken out in the real names of the owners. This is proved by the fact that an internal revenue officer demanded that a member of the firm take out a government license under the real name of the owners of the saloon or be liable to prosecution. When this fact was made plain to one of the owners he made affidavit that the saloon was operated by Seward & Company and that the "company" was composed of W. Denny and C. Evans. The records in the court house shown that the county, city and State license was taken out in the name of Basil Seward.

Attorneys say that the law was passed to make it possible to convict men who attempt to sell liquor and be protected by a government license alone. They point out all that needs be done in such a case is to show that liquor was sold with none other than a government license.

It is declared that "blind tiger" dealers always take out a government license because they fear the government since its penalties are severe and their prosecution quick and sure. The best intent of this law, attorneys assert, is to make it possible to find "blind tiger" operators.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED BY HOTEL MANAGER

William Grady of Greensburg, Recently of This City, Brings Charge Against Merritt Sweeney.

HE DECLARES HE WAS CHOKED

William Grady, who was employed on the streets in Greensburg during the summer and who worked here until recently, where he is well known, charged in police court in Greensburg yesterday that he was robbed Saturday night of twenty-three dollars by Merritt Sweeney, manager of a Greensburg hotel where Grady spent the night. Sweeney was arrested and pleaded not guilty. His preliminary hearing was held yesterday afternoon.

According to the story told by Grady, he was drinking heavily in the evening and a friend, Charles Turner, took him to the hotel. After paying fifty cents for a room he retired, to soon afterwards he was awakened by some one choking him. A big, burly fellow he did not know, and whom he could not at first see from the fact that the man was at his rear, was doing the choking work, and according to Grady he recognized the man that went through his pockets as being Sweeney.

PRISONERS RETAIN TWO ATTORNEYS

Wilson and Becraft Will Not be Taken Before Judge Blair Until After Investigation.

MAY BE TWO OR THREE DAYS

Tom Wilson and Albert Becraft, the two men arrested Saturday on the charge of stealing furs from Lon Bowles, have retained Will M. Sparks and George Young as their attorneys. The men were to have been taken before Judge Blair today, but as the attorneys desired more time in which to investigate, the preliminary hearing may not take place for two or three days. It was stated that the men were not taken before the judge today because they would be required to enter a plea of either guilty or not guilty and before they did this the lawyers in the case wished to investigate before advising on a plea. The men have not confessed but tell conflicting stories and attempt to lay the blame on each other.

THREW BRICK THROUGH DOOR.

DISPLAYS CAUSE EARLY SHOPPING

Beautifully Decorated Windows Attract Early Christmas Buyers to Business District.

THERE IS GENEROUS RESPONSE

Just Ten More Shopping Days Before Christmas Remain—Merchants Cater to Early Business.

With just eleven shopping days remaining before Christmas Rushville's retail stores have taken on the annual holiday aspect and the stocks are being arranged for the final rush and the clean-up. Merchants anticipate a big trade this year on account of the generally prosperous condition of the town and county people and they have predicted a record season's sales. One thing more noticeable this year is that fewer people are going out of town to do their Christmas shopping.

Year after year Rushville's progressive merchants have studied the demands of the city's trade and in the subsequent seasons to cater to the trend of this trade. By this modern business method their books have showed increased earnings and stores have had to be enlarged to handle the choice of offerings. Stocks now carried by the Rushville merchants compare favorably with those of the larger cities and prices are attractive in holding this increased trading at home.

Just now clever window displays have been worked up to aid the people in making their Christmas selections. Careful advertising, now covering larger space, is proving advantageous to both the buyer and the retailer. In the window displays are settings, artistically arranged, of all kinds of holiday goods. These displays also give a good idea of the general scope of the stocks carried.

Merchants are giving encouragement to the early buying movement that is being urged throughout the country by the women's clubs. These latter organizations especially have the welfare of the clerks in mind. In years past many have deferred their Christmas shopping until the week before Christmas. That meant long, long hours for the clerks. By their delays the patrons, unknowingly perhaps, suffered in their dealings. The clerks were tired and naturally could not give the best service. Then, too, stocks had become depleted in many sortings.

In Rushville this year there has been a generous response to the early trading suggestion. One merchant said today that he never had such an early rush in his store and so increased was his business that certain lines in his stock had become so depleted he had telegraphed duplicate orders to have sufficient goods on hands to carry up to Christmas.

ASKED CHANGE OF VENUE

Herkless vs. Miller Damage Suit Sent to Hancock County.

The five thousand dollar damage suit of Lottie Herkless against Pleasant A. Miller was sent to Hancock county this morning on a change of venue. The case was to have been tried in the circuit court here today and the change of venue was taken just before the case came to trial. Mrs. Herkless charges that Miller's auto frightened her horse causing it to run away.

DEATH IS VERY SUDDEN

Joseph Ernest, aged 59, formerly a resident near Gwynneville, died at his home in Arno, Pa., yesterday. The cause of his death is unknown, but the telegram which was received by his daughter, Mrs. Edward Evans, of Gwynneville, stated that his death was very sudden. His remains were to leave Arno this morning for Gwynneville and will be taken to the home of his daughter.

FIVE SATURDAYS; AS MANY PAY DAYS

Unusual Occurrence This Month is Fortunate on the Eve of the Holidays.

BRINGS GLADNESS TO FAMILY

If you will glance at the calendar for the month of December, you will notice there are five Sundays and five Saturdays, something rather out of the ordinary. Inasmuch as this is the month that Santa Claus pays his annual visit, the average man will welcome the five Saturdays, as that means five pay days and they always come in very handy in this month. Sunday will also play a part in the Christmas festivities, Christmas eve falling on Sunday when stockings must be filled, the Christmas tree decorated and hung with presents that are to bring gladness to the members of the family from the youngest to the eldest.

MARY F. DEMMER DIES

Infant Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Demmer Expires.

Mary Frances, aged eight months and five days, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Demmer of West Second street, died at nine o'clock this morning. She had been a patient little sufferer for three weeks and her condition was thought to be somewhat improved early this week. She was first taken sick with pneumonia which was followed by erysipelas, and caused her death. The funeral will be held at the Catholic church tomorrow afternoon at two-thirty o'clock conducted by the Rev. W. J. Cronin. The bereaved parents are left to mourn her loss.

RATS CAUSED BREAK IN PIPE

Chewed Holes in Water Main at the Masonic Temple.

The break in the water pipes at the Masonic Temple was found by plumbers to have been caused by rats. This sounds almost unbelievable but nevertheless is a fact. The workmen found two large holes chewed in a section of lead pipe and the teeth prints are very plain showing that the rats did the work. The leak in the pipe was discovered before any damage resulted. Local plumbers say this is the first case of the kind reported in the city.

Anow or rain tonight or Wednesday.

COAL OIL BURNS MAY BE FATAL

"Aunt" Martha Stewart, Aged Colored Woman, Badly Injured in Explosion This Morning.

ATTEMPTED TO START FIRE

Accident Occurred at the Residence of Mrs. J. R. Carmichael Where She Was Employed.

The aversion to the use of a gas stove and a preference for wood, caused Mrs. Martha Stewart, wife of Howard Stewart, an old colored slave, to be probably fatally burned. Mrs. Stewart was attempting to light a stove in an out building in the rear of the residence of Mrs. J. R. Carmichael in North Main street, this morning about nine o'clock, with the aid of coal oil.

An explosion resulted and the flames leaped up in the injured woman's face and in a few seconds her clothing was on fire. Mrs. Stewart was frightfully burned from her waist upward and the flesh on the arms and face was burned to a pulp. The burns according to the attending physicians are surface burns and not very deep. As these are considered the very worst kind of burns, they say Mrs. Stewart has very little chance of recovering.

Mrs. Stewart was employed at the Carmichael home to do some house work and had gone to the out house to light a fire in the wood stove. Mrs. Carmichael and daughter, Mrs. Bert Simpson were alone in the house at the time and were attracted to the rear of the house by the explosion. Mrs. Simpson was the first to reach the colored woman and found her coming from the out house enveloped in flames.

Mrs. Stewart's cries for help were pathetic and the appeals attracted the attention of A. L. Riggs, who happened to be passing the house at the time. When Mr. Riggs arrived on the scene he found that Mrs. Carmichael had attempted to smother the flames with a rug and that Mrs. Stewart in great agony had rolled over on the rug and had it under her. Mr. Riggs succeeded in putting out the flames with his overcoat and with the aid of Austin Thompson of Bloomington who arrived shortly after Mr. Riggs, carried the suffering woman in the house.

A cry of fire and the intense excitement caused a fire alarm to be turned in but no damage resulted to the building. The frantic cries and outbursts of agony from Mrs. Stewart attracted the entire neighborhood and Drs. Lowell M. Green and D. D. VanOsdol arrived in a short time. Mrs. Carmichael and Mrs. Simpson were frantic and both suffered a severe nervous shock. Mrs. Simpson sustained a badly burned left hand in taking hold of Mrs. Stewart when her clothing was in flames.

Mrs. Stewart always had a peculiar aversion of a gas stove and at the various places she worked would never use gas if there was a wood stove in the house. Her preference for the old fashioned wood fire is shown by the fact that a gas stove was in the same room with the wood stove at the Carmichael home. Mrs. Stewart is familiarly known as "Aunt Martha" and has worked at many homes doing house work. An examination of the stove following the accident showed that the wood had not been on fire and that some paper which was placed on the bottom had burned. It was probably a spark from the paper that caused the flash. The coal oil can was found on the floor besides the stove and the theory is that Mrs. Stewart poured the oil direct from the can into the stove.

MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL

Argument Heard in Case of Sorrell vs. Miller.

Judge Blair heard the argument for a new trial this morning in the damage suit of Charles Sorrell against Glen Miller. Sorrell asked $1000 damages for personal injuries and in the trial the jury found for Miller. George Young represented Sorrell and Donald Smith appeared for Miller. Judge Blair has not as yet granted a new hearing.

SAYS REPUTATION IS HURT BY ARREST

Edwin McGraw, Glenwood Harness maker, Declares Charge Without Foundation.

IS PROVED BY ITS DISMISSAL

In justice to himself, Edwin McGraw, a harness maker of Glenwood, who lives on the other side of the Rush-Fayette county line, wants it understood that action brought against him by Don C. Brooks, in Squire Kratzer's court here recently, has been dismissed by Brooks, which indicates, Mr. McGraw declares, that Brooks had no case whatever. He says that the report received in Glenwood that he was arrested has hurt his reputation.

Mr. McGraw declares that trouble never arose over a line fence as was reported in squire's court. He says that a survey was made and that he and Brooks owed the surveyor five dollars. He declares that Brooks had no money when the time for settlement came and he gave the surveyor a five dollar bill. This happened about two years ago. Mr. McGraw says he has "dunned" Brooks repeatedly but that he has never paid his half and Mr. McGraw says that he jokingly remarked to Brooks the other day that he "would take it out of his hide." Straightway Brooks came to this city and had him arrested. Mr. McGraw's attorneys says that the constable from the squire's court has no jurisdiction in Fayette county and could not rightly bring McGraw here as he did.

SPARKS PAINFULLY HURT

Glass Flies in I. & C. Motorman's
Eyes in Greensburg Accident.

George Sparks, an I. & C. motorman, who is very well known here, was injured yesterday in Greensburg when a fallen trolley wire smashed through the glass in the front of the motorman's compartment and small particles of glass were thrown into his face and eyes. He was taken to a physician's office and treated. The fact that the wire was heavily charged makes the accident rather remarkable in that no greater damage was done.

The juvenile Jackson school orchestra will be the chief attraction at the Palace benefit motion picture show for the Daily Republican Santa Claus fund tomorrow night. The orchestra, directed by Dwight VanOsdol has appeared in public before and has made a distinct impression.

Although the players are all very young they are musicians of ability and their appearance at the benefit show is expected to increase the attendance greatly.

"The Legend of the Stars," a picture story which depicts the story of the three Wise Men and the "Nativity" which produces the story of the Christ Child, born in the manger, will be shown at the benefit show.

Tickets for the show are being sold about the city and over a hundred were disposed of today. It is expected that more than that number will be sold tomorrow.

The little folks are beginning to send in their contributions to the fund liberally now. Leah Worth writes that "she donates twenty-five cents to buy some little child a present."

George W. Poston sends fifty cents and says he is willing "to help make some other children happy on Christmas day." William and Wayne Ertle have a request also that the money they mailed to the fund be used "to help make glad the hearts of some poor little boys or girls on Christmas morning."

SHOULD SALOONS CLOSE SATURDAY?

Police Are in Quandary, This Question Arising Because Supervisors
Will be Elected Then.

NO VOTING IN RUSHVILLE

The police are in a quandary. They do not know whether the saloons of the city should be closed Saturday, when road supervisors will be elected in all of the townships of the county. In one sense of the word they should be closed, the police hold, and in another sense of the word they should not. It is true that there will be an election and on all election days the saloons are supposed to be closed. It is an election day, yet there will be no voting take place inside the corporate limits of Rushville. The police expect to learn what the law is in regard to and enforce it.

WOULD IMPRESS
HEALTH OFFICER

H. E. Barnard, Chief Chemist of State Health Board Seeks Co-Operation of County Officials.

FILES HIS ANNUAL REPORT

Special Stress is Laid on Work of Local Inspectors—1,608 Food Samples Examined.

The sixth annual report of the food and drug department of the state board of health, for the fiscal year ended September 30, has been filed with Governor Marshall by H. E. Barnard, chief chemist for the state board. In the introduction, Mr. Barnard said:

"Special effort has been made during the year to develop local inspection work under the pure food, drug and sanitary laws. City, county and town health officers are deputy inspectors subordinate to this department. This work is necessarily new to most of them, and because of the small salaries paid these officials, many have not made use of the opportunity given them to improve the conditions surrounding the sale and distribution of the food and drug supply.

"We have endeavored to impress upon the health officer his responsibility as a subordinate of the department and the co-operation we have secured and when it is constantly increasing assures us of the ultimate success of our effort. * * * When the more than seven hundred health officers of the State come to appreciate the great value of their work in just such service, we shall have developed a system of sanitary supervision which has never been approached in any State or country, and which for effectiveness and low cost of operation can hardly be equaled. It will always be necessary to reinforce the inspection service by laboratory control. It is impossible to legislate absolute honesty into business practice."

The enforcement of the pure drug part of the laboratory's work, Mr. Barnard set out, was much easier than that of enforcing the pure food part as the central supply houses are usually at fault, and can be handled easily.

The report sets out that during the year, 1,608 samples of food collected by inspectors were examined in the laboratory. Of these 526 or 32.7 per cent were illegal. In the collection of samples the inspector took only those which they had cause to believe were illegal, and the percentage of illegal foodstuffs to the entire food supply Mr. Barnard said, would be much lower than 32.7 per cent. In 1906 the percentage of adulteration was 20.2 per cent; in 1908 it was 25.7 per cent; in 1909 it was 33.8 per cent; in 1910 it was 30.9 per cent. Many of the samples collected this year were bottles of milk seized under the new law which makes the presence of visible dirt prima facie evidence of adulteration.

DICTOGRAPH CASE IS AGAIN UP FOR TRIAL

Walter Gibson, Gary Councilman, Faces Court.

Crown Point, Ind., Dec. 12.—Charged with bribery in connection with the Dean heating franchise at Gary, Walter Gibson, a Gary councilman is on trial in the circuit court here.

Veron von Fleet of Elkhart is presiding as special judge. Samuel B. Parker of South Bend, named by Governor Marshall to assist Prosecutor C. R. Greenwald, will take an active part in the case. T. B. Dean of Louisville, who obtained evidence against Gibson by means of the dictograph in a Chicago hotel, is the prosecuting witness.

As a protection against possible attempts at "jury fixing" the jurors will sleep in the courthouse during the trial. The case against Gibson has a vital bearing on the coming trial of Mayor T. E. Knotts and other accused members of his official family, who are to be tried later on bribery charges.

It was intended, at first, to try Gibson at Valparaiso, but after the jury disagreed in the case of C. E. Willis, city engineer of Gary, Judge von Fleet decided to try Gibson here.

INDIANA'S DEFENSE

Ruling Asked as to Constitutionality of Mine Safety Law.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Attorney General Honan of Indiana has submitted, in the form of a printed brief, to the supreme court Indiana's defense of its law regulating the width of coal mine entries. The court will be requested to pass on the constitutionality of the law at an early date. The law was attacked on the ground that it improperly classified mines, requiring some to have entries of not less than a certain width and not so requiring others. Honan in his brief declared the classification was justified because of the difference in the difficulties of mining in the "block coal" field.

Watch Your Kidneys

Sharits, of Union City, says, "Over five years I suffered a great deal with my kidneys, having backache so severe that at times I suffered much misery while moving around. My kidney action was frequent, the kidneys being very weak and the secretions cloudy. In the morning on arising had dizzy spells and headaches. I was gradually growing worse when I started taking Foley Kidney Pills. In a short time the backaches left me and the kidneys became strong and their action natural. The headaches and dizziness all left, so that I again feel well and strong. Although 70 years old I am able to do a hard day's work without suffering and discomfort. This was all brought about by Foley Kidney Pills which I gladly recommend." F. B. Johnson & Co.

Millionaire Unable to Be Present at the Trial of Girl Assaultants.

New York, Dec. 12.—Physicians attending William E. D. Stokes, who has been critically ill for more than a week, are worried over the elderly millionaire's condition. The trial of Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad, the show girls charged with shooting Stokes in the legs last spring, is proceeding in his absence, and the cross-examination of Miss Graham probably will be concluded today. Afterward Miss Conrad may take the stand.

ARIZONA ENGAGES IN BATTLE OF BALLOTS
First State Election Is Being Held Today.

Phoenix, Arizona, Dec. 12.—The campaign was closed in a spectacular manner in Phoenix yesterday afternoon. Three hundred cowboys, ranchers and business men, mounted on horses and bearing placards, marched through the streets of the city, led by a band. Impartial political observers are forecasting a clean sweep for the Democratic ticket in the first state election today by majorities ranging from 2,000 to 3,000.

Though from the first it has been a foregone conclusion that the Democrats would elect most of the state officers, the Republicans have exerted every effort in behalf of E. W. Wells, nominee for governor; J. Fred Cleveland, nominated for secretary of state, and Ralph H. Cameron and Royal Smith, candidates for the United States senate.

John J. Birdno, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, claims the election of George W. P. Hunt for governor by 4,000. Chairman Lorenzo Hubbell of the Republican committee claims Wells' election as governor by 1,000 and victory for most of the other candidates by majorities ranging from that down to 300.

BRIEF DISPATCHES

Congress leaders have agreed on a holiday recess from Dec. 22 to Jan. 3.

Fire destroyed property worth about $500,000 at Bluefields, Nicaragua, and at one time threatened to wipe out the town.

A defalcation of $100,000 is alleged in the accounts of City Treasurer Key of Everett, Wash., who has been missing for a month.

The demurrers of the defendants in the suit to dissolve the so-called sugar trust were overruled in the United States circuit court at New York.

The Republican national committee is in session at Washington today to fix a time and place for the meeting of the national convention next year.

In consequence of representations made by Germany the Turks will not expel Italians from Smyrna, but will compel them to leave all fortified places.

In a referendum vote in New Zealand for colony-wide prohibition, 55.93 per cent of the total vote was cast for the prohibition measure, while 60 per cent was required to make it a law.

The Russian newspapers have inaugurated a virulent campaign urging the government to stand unchangeably by the present policy of refusing to recognize passports issued to Jews.

Luna Park, the big Coney Island amusement resort, which lost a great part of itself at the Dreamland fire last spring, has again suffered a disastrous fire, the loss being placed at $150,000.

The threatened fight in Ohio against Mr. Taft's renomination is based on the proposal to elect the delegates at large of that state to the national convention by a presidential preference primary.

Rear Admiral Reginald F. Nicholson has resigned as chief of the bureau of navigation to take command of the Asiatic squadron, and Commander Philip Andrews will become chief of the bureau of navigation.

CITY OFFICIALS FINED BY COURT
Judge Fortune Sustains Contempt Charges.
AN APPEAL WILL BE TAKEN

Contention at Terre Haute Over the Appointment There of a City Engineer Has Not Yet Ended, the Defendants in Contempt of Court Proceedings Declaring Their Intention to Carry the Case Higher.

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 12.—Judge Charles M. Fortune of the Vigo circuit court fined Louis Gerhardt, mayor of this city; Daniel Fasig, chief of police, and Robert M. Burns, city engineer, $100 and costs each for contempt of court. Judge Fortune also dissolved his restraining order recently granted the seven councilmen to prevent Burns from taking office, thus putting Donn M. Roberts completely out of office and leaving the entire matter up to the appellate court. The defense asked for time to consider what action to take.

Just before the decision was given by the court, Roberts struck Thomas O'Mara, a law partner of Peter M. Foley, city attorney. Roberts was at a telephone in the courtroom, and thought O'Mara was trying to hear what he was saying. The one blow was all there was to the fight.

The contempt proceedings grew out of the refusal by the defendants to recognize the injunction granted the councilmen by Judge Fortune to prevent the ousting of Roberts. The injunction was issued the day Judge Cobb, at Vincennes, dissolved the first restraining order issued by Judge Fortune.

When Judge Cobb dissolved the order Mayor Gerhardt immediately placed Robert M. Burns in the office of city engineer. It was then Judge Fortune issued his second order on petition of the council combine, and it was this order the defendants contended was illegal.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT

Baby Imprisoned in Folding Bed Is Burned to Death.

Fowler, Ind., Dec. 12.—While Mrs. Fred Senesae was putting her three-year-old child to bed a lamp which she had placed on the shelf of the folding bed, exploded, setting fire to the bed clothing. While the mother was endeavoring to extinguish the flames the bed closed on the little one and, in her attempts to release the child Mrs. Senesae was fatally burned. She was forced to abandon the attempt and leave the little one to its fate. The house was destroyed, the child burned to death and Mrs. Senesae is in a serious condition as a result of her injuries.

FINALLY GOT HIM

Boasted of Having Worked Bank Cashiers For Years.

Muncie, Ind., Dec. 12.—Bank presidents and cashiers are easily fooled, according to the confession of A. H. Johnson, arrested here for attempting to pass a forged check at a Muncie hotel. Johnson says he has been passing spurious checks in all parts of the country, victimizing bank cashiers, Elks' lodges and hotels with impunity. Johnson freely admitted his guilt. "I've cashed so much bad paper that I can't begin to remember all of it," he said to the police. Johnson was captured here after an exciting chase.

Had Been Punished Enough.

Indianapolis, Dec. 12.—Raymond E. Thompson, an attorney, was fined $1 and costs by Justice of the Peace Manning for assaulting Henry C. Cox, another attorney. Cox said that the assault occurred in the law building. It followed a difference of opinion regarding a legal matter. When he assessed the fine Justice Manning said that from all appearances both parties had received punishment enough already.

Enrollment in Indiana Schools.

Indianapolis, Dec. 12.—Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction, has completed the figures on the total school enrollment for the school year of 1910-1911, showing the total for the state in all the grades, including the high school, was 530,267. Of the total enrollment 284,516 were in township schools, 54,886 in town schools, and 190,267 in the city schools.

Caught at Passing "the Queer."

Mt. Vernon, Ind., Dec. 12.—Charles Ellis and an eighteen-year-old son, who claimed Philadelphia as their home, and "Red" Kirkpatrick of Aurora, Ind., were arrested in this city for passing counterfeit money. They were detected in the act of circulating the spurious coin.

USED OTHER PEOPLES' MONEY FOR OWN USE
And Now New York Banker Is In Serious Trouble.

New York, Dec. 12.—President Herbert T. Jennings of the Mt. Vernon (N. Y.) National bank, building company promoter, lawyer and business man, was arrested in his office at 1842 Broadway by United States Marshal William Henkel on a bench warrant issued following the finding by the federal grand jury of an indictment charging Jennings with misapplying funds of the bank to the amount of $154,908.06 by means of dummy loans. United States Attorney Henry A. Wise is authority for the statement that upon further investigation Jennings' defalcations will total $400,000. Most of this money, it is thought, was sunk by the banker in various building enterprises.

Jennings was arraigned before Judge Holt and pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $25,000, which was furnished by the prisoner's sister-in-law.

The Mt. Vernon National bank went into the hands of a receiver last summer, and since then the federal authorities have been trying to unravel the tangled state in which the institution was found to be.

BROKE UP "BELLING"

Premature Explosion of a Kentucky Charivari Causes Death.

Mt. Eden, Ky., Dec. 12.—Frank Armstrong, aged twenty, was probably fatally hurt, and his father, Dudley Armstrong, and a companion, Amar Richardson, were seriously injured by an explosion of gunpowder during the progress of a charivari party which followed the wedding of Frank Reynolds of this county.

One of the phases of the charivari was the firing of an anvil. The too rapid firing of the iron caused it to get hot, which resulted in young Armstrong being horribly mangled when he set about recharging the anvil. A large package of powder which he carried in his hands let go when he stooped over the iron. Richardson was standing near, and was fearfully burned about the head and face. Armstrong's father was injured while trying to beat out the flames when his son's clothing became ignited.

Steamer Goes on Rocks.

New York, Dec. 12.—The steamer Chelsea, bound for New Haven, went on the rocks east of the Sunken Meadow light near Riker's Island. She had thirty passengers on board, all of whom were taken off in safety. The Chelsea was making her way through the fog that hung over the treacherous waters of the Sunken Meadows when she sent her bow high up on the rocks. For more than an hour she tried to back off, but finally, finding that this was impossible, the captain whistled for help.

Four Men Found Alive.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 12.—A message from President Stephenson of the Knoxville Iron and Steel company, which owns the Cross Mountain mine, says four men have been found alive in the mine, which was destroyed Saturday by an explosion of dust, imprisoning nearly a hundred miners.

Bullet Clipped Heart.

Evansville, Ind., Dec. 12.—William Kerth, aged twenty-six, a draftsman, was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of a revolver. The ball entered his chest, tearing away the tip of the heart.

The case against Omer Stevens for heavy hauling is causing a great deal of excitement. Parties have taken sides and some of the more level-headed citizens have tried to bring about a compromise as it will only make more trouble to Rush the case. It is agreed to by some to withdraw the suit and that the pike teams shall quit hauling while the roads are soft. Farmers are sometimes compelled to go on the roads when they are soft. In case they were hauling hogs or sometimes when they go after a load of coal and it thaws before they get home. If the law is strict enough to prosecute one man why not another, is the thought that may bring about a compromise. In connection with this it should be said that automobiles are great mud eaters.

In spite of the difficulties of landing new industries, aggressive cities and towns are making more and more effort to get new manufacturing plants. A simple newspaper item that Smith is thinking of locating a new branch of his manufacturing business, or that young Jones is to start out for himself, brings a perfect flood of inquiries from eagle-eyed boards of trade.

Many of these propositions come from professional rounders, who stay in one place only as long as they get tax exemptions and free rent. Under such conditions men with money are slow to invest their dollars.

At the same time, other cities are getting substantial new enterprises, and their population figures are jumping ahead. As a man will never get much beyond day wages unless he takes some chances, so a community will stand still if it refuses to invest money except on certainties.

When a town does land a sizable new industry permanently, the increase of population brings about a growth in retail trade and real estate that will wipe out many previous losses. The cities where this growth has come have been those in which the entire business community has turned in to help young men get a foothold. Failures and mistakes were made, but a few worthless shares of stock look trifling when population growth has doubled the value of your real estate or business.

The dollar a day pension bill is all right, but somewhat too limited. We favor extending it to heroes of peace as well as war, including police, firemen, newspaper workers, and any man who is struggling to support a family under the present cost of living.

The government says naval efficiency would be promoted by selling three navy yards. The politicians will say that this will impair their efficiency in carrying the next caucuses.

There is much opposition to arbitration on the ground of national honor, it having been settled long ago that the way to settle a dispute honorably is to create a new lot of widows and orphans.

Editorialesettes.

We are notified that there are five pay days in December. It's well since the pay days between Thanksgiving and Christmas are the most important of the year.

Are you thinking of shopping early tomorrow? Or early shopping if you so prefer it (prefer it so is just as well).

An exchange warns its two or three correspondents that it will not stand for the ancient wheeze about Sunday schools filling up at Christmas time. "We knowingly admit no jokes that are over 8,000,000 years old," it contains. Bravo!

The demand for "a sane Christmas" means to change the custom of going broke, giving people things which they do want and can not use and receiving in return those which are just as valueless.

"Write only those things that will prove of benefit to the public," is the admonition of Mayor Gaynor of New York to newspaper reporters. But how would we fill this column?

Occasionally, or we should say very often, we are forced to pad considerably. This is a fair sample.

The difference between the man who rocks the boat and the man who drags the gun over the fence after him is that it is not necessary to drag for the body of the latter.

We always figured that it is cheaper to pay twenty cents for a rabbit than to have to stand trial for manslaughter or mutilation of stock.

"Turkey meat is usually dry, and too often tough," is the howl emitted by the Elwood record. Collections must be on the bum, ole top.

Cheaper and better. That's what Parisian ivory is. It is the new toilet goods line at Lytle's. 230116

HOME-MADE MINCE MEAT MUST BE HOME-MADE.

Persons who each winter are accustomed to make up "home-made" mince meat and put it on the market had better "know what they're about," for the State board of health will get them, if they don't watch out." And in this connection it is announced that the State board of health will see to it that the public health gets home-made mince meat when it pays its money for such a product.

The pure food board has issued the following definition: "Mince meat is a mixture of not less than ten per cent of cooked, comminuted meat, with chopped suet, apples and other fruit, salt and spices and with sugar, syrup of molasses and with or without vinegar, fresh, concentrated or fermented fruit juices or spirituous liquors." The question of the use of glucose and starch in mince meat has been considered and the board is of the opinion that these are not normally ingredients of mince meat and therefore their presence should be plainly indicated on the label.

We will prove ourselves if you give us the chance. We cover the whole subject of repairing autos. That means that there is nothing in the line of auto repairing we do not do—also that we omit nothing in quality or quantity of our work. The only thing that escapes our attention is the tacking on of unnecessary and uncalled for—therefore unfair—items in our bills. We do all kinds of top building and repairing at a reasonable price.

AMUSEMENTS

The Portola will have an interesting picture tonight in the film, "The Death of Nathan Hale." It is an Edison picture dealing with a historical subject. "The Ranger's Stratagem" is a sensational western drama by the Kalem company.

The illustrated lecture by Will Hermstegen at the Princess theater will be repeated tonight. "Prisons and Prisoners" is the subject of the lecture and tonight the lecture will deal with those of the United States. His address last evening was interesting and instructive. The first picture will be a Pathe drama entitled "Gypsy Honor." It is a thrilling story of gypsy life. "The Maiden of the Pie-faced Indians" is a good comedy.

Jackson, at the head of his hosts, entering Frederick, that balmy September day, beholds the starry flag floating from a modest brick dwelling. Others have seen it, too. A score of muskets belch forth as one shot and the stars and stripes hang by a cord from the shattered flagpole. In a flash the window is raised, framing therein an aged but sweet face. A pair of feeble hands grasp the broken pole and once more the stars and stripes defiantly flutter. Then are uttered those well-remembered words: "Shoot if you must, this old gray head, but spare your country's flag." The butts of a hundred muskets leap to the shoulders of the Gray Coats, but the next instant the stentorian tones of brave General Jackson ring out: "Attention! Who touches a hair on yon gray head, dies the death of a dog!" Then with a salute, he and his men marched on. Barbara Frietchie belonged to history. This glorious act decided Virginia Iredale as to her course in love and politics. Virginia thought she loved her Southland more than the Union, but when she saw the old flag waving in Aunt Barbara's hand, she knew at once where her real sympathies were, and as a result of this decision, her fair head found a resting place on the broad and manly bosom of George Mason. All this and more will be depicted in the feature film, "Barbara Frietchie" at the Palace tonight. The usual illustrated song will be sung.

WOMEN PLAN TO ATTEND SCHOOL

Indications Are That Many Will Take Advantage of Purdue Short Course Next Month.

MRS. CALVIN TO BE IN CHARGE

Judging from the interest already shown in the farmers' short course to be held at Purdue University, under the direction of the School of Agriculture from January 8 to 13, the enrollment will include more women than at any previous session.

The work in home economies at the Purdue short course will be of a practical nature, and will be so designed as to appeal to both the women of the farm and of the city. The schedules offered will permit the giving of attention to the home economics subjects, or the division of part of the time for the study of agricultural matters, such as horticulture, dairying and poultry work.

The short course work for women will be under the direction of Mrs. Henrietta Calvin of Purdue University. Mrs. Calvin, who will be remembered as the woman who has given course lectures on domestic science at the chautauqua here for two years, will be aided in the work by Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones of Minneapolis, Miss Mary Matthews of Cambridge City, who has been successful in her work at farmers' institutes throughout the State, will be present. She will demonstrate how to determine different kinds of textiles, and the methods of determining the adulterants used by unscrupulous manufacturers. Miss Gertrude M. McCheyne, chief of the domestic science division of the agricultural extension department will also assist.

Mrs. James Cross of near Arlington, who underwent an operation in the Sexton sanatorium last week is fast improving and her recovery is expected.

HORSE OWNERS SCENT FAMINE

Price of Hay is Soaring And Feeders Predict a Severe Winter Experience.

PASTURE IS LONG WAY OFF

Farmers Feed Some Straw and Corn Fodder Supplies Are Being Used up.

Rushville men who use horses in their business are becoming alarmed at the outlook for hay supply before spring. At the present time good, clean hay is about the scarcest marketable product, and is bringing the price. Good hay is bringing from $18 to $18.50 in the markets and dealers say if the quality is usually good they will pay $19. Many of the business men are paying $20 too for hay, and still are unable to obtain enough.

Clover hay, which in former years was considered as only fit for cows, is bringing $18 a ton in the local markets. Farmers are feeding straw, if they have it, and many are forced to use corn fodder, having no hay.

In the fall when hay baling commenced the majority of farmers baled their available marketable hay and sold it at once. The market sagged at that time due to a good supply but later when the hay in the country was exhausted, the price rose steadily. Hay climbed at a rapid rate and now is nearing the top-notch mark of $20.

Dealers say it is unusual for hay to be bringing the price it is at the present time, for it is seldom it reaches this mark until in the spring. It is hard to predict the dealers say, what the hay condition will be before the pastures open next spring.

A. P. Walker is Pleased When he Happens on to Car Like His Own in England.

A. P. Walker of Rushville is a believer that American made cars can be found almost anywhere, says the Indianapolis Star. He is one of the largest importers of Jersey cattle in the United States, and his business frequently takes him abroad. Incidentally, Mr. Walker owns a seven-passenger 6-60 Premier.

Not long ago Mr. Walker found himself one gloomy morning in the city of Ipswell, England. He arose early and left his hotel for a short walk. He was greatly surprised to see a seven-passenger 6-60 Premier, an exact duplicate of his own car, approaching him in the street. The appearance of the Premier was so pleasing to the Indiana man that he ran into the street and caused the driver to stop his car. The latter looked on Mr. Walker coldly, however, and was inclined to regard him as a "bally boulder." The Hoosier was not accepted as such and, after he had shown his credentials, he found the Englishman good company, who made his short stay in Ipswell as pleasant as possible.

The FLYING MERCURY

by ELEANOR M. INGRAM

AUTHOR OF THE GAME AND THE CANDLE

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS

COPYRIGHT 1910 BY BOBBY-MERRILL CO.

Something in the too-indolent tone of Dick's usually dormant observation. Startled, he scrutinized Lestrangle.

"Is that why you bothered yourself with me?" he stammered. "Is that why?"

"Shut up!" warned Lestrangle forcibly and inelegantly. "That isn't tight enough, Doc. You know I'm experienced at this sort of thing, and I'm going to use this arm."

But Dick was not to be silenced in his new enlightenment. When the surgeon momentarily turned away, he leaned nearer, his plump face grim.

"If I brace up, it won't be for Emily, but for you, Darling Lestrangle," he whispered viciously. "She don't want me and I don't want her, that way. I've got over that. And, and—oh, confound it, I'm sorry, old man!"

"Shut up!" said Lestrangle again.

But though Dick's very sympathy unconsciously showed the hopeless chasm between the racing driver and Miss French, the hurt did not cloud the cordial smile Lestrangle sent to mitigate his command.

CHAPTER VI.

Emily first heard the full story of the accident that evening, when Dick sat opposite her on the veranda and gave the account in frank anxiety and dejection.

"We're going down tonight on the nine o'clock train," he added in conclusion. "Tomorrow morning he'll be practicing on the track, and tomorrow evening at 6 the race starts. And Lestrangle starts crippled because I am a clumsy idiot. He laughs at me, but he'd do that anyhow."

"Yes," agreed Emily. "He would do that anyhow." Her eyes were wide and terrified, the little hands she clasped in her lap were quite cold. "I wish, I wish he had never come to this place."

"Oh, you do?" Dick said oddly. "Maybe he will, too, before he gets through with us. We're a nasty lot, we Frenches; a lot of blue-blooded snobs without any red blood in us. Are you going to say good-by to me? I won't be home until it's over."

She looked at him, across the odorous dusk slowly silvering as the moon rose.

"You are going to be with him?" Dick smoothed his leggings before standing up, surveying his strict motor costume with a gloomy pride not to be concealed.

"Yes; I'm representing our company. Lestrangle might want some backing if any disputes turned up. Uncle Ethan nearly had a fit when Bailey told him what I was going to do; he called me Richard for the first time in my life. I guess I'll be some good yet, if every one except Lestrangle did think I was a chump."

"I am very sure you will," she answered gently. "Good-by, Dick; you look very nice."

When he reached the foot of the steps, her voice recalled him, as she stood leaning over the rail.

"Dick, you could not make him give it up, not race this time?"

He stared up at her white figure.

"No, I could not. Don't you suppose I tried?"

"I suppose you did," she admitted, and went back to her seat.

The June night was very quiet. Once a sleepy bird stirred in the bushes, and chirped through the dark. Far below the throb of a motor passed down the road, dying away again to leave silence. Suddenly Emily French hid her face on the arm of her chair and the tears overflowed.

There was no consciousness of time while that maritulate passion of dread spent itself. But it was nearly half an hour later when she started up at the echo of a light step on the gravel path, dashing her handkerchief across her eyes.

It was incredible, but it was true: Lestrangle himself was standing before her at the foot of the low stairs, the moonlight glinting across his unwashed bronze head and bright, clear face.

"I beg pardon for trespass, Miss French," he said, "but your cousin tells me he has been saying a great deal of nonsense to you about this race, and that you were so very good as to feel some concern regarding it. Really, I had to run up and set that right; I couldn't leave you to be annoyed by Mr. French's nerves. Will you forgive me?"

Like sun through a mist his blithe voice cleared through her distress. Before the tranquil sanity of his regard, her painted terrors suddenly showed as the artificial canvas scenes of a stage, unreal, untrue.

"It was like you to come," she answered, with a shaking sigh that was half sob. "I was frightened, yes."

"There is no cause. A dozen other men take the same chance as Rupert and I; the driver who alternates with me, for instance. This is our life."

"Your arm?"

"Is well enough." He laughed a little. "You will see many a bandaged arm before the twenty-four hours are up; few of us finish without a scratch or strain or blister. This is a man's game, but it's not half so destructive as foot-ball. You wished me good luck for the Georgia race; will you repeat the honor before I go back to French?"

"I wish you," she said unsteadily, "every kind of success, now and always. You saved Dick today—of all else you have done for him and for me I have not words to speak. But it made it harder to bear the thought of your hurt and risk from the hurt, when I knew that I had sent Dick there, who caused it."

Lestrangle hesitated, himself troubled. Her soft loveliness in the delicate light that left her eyes unreadable depths of shadow, her timidity and anxiety for his safety, were from their very unconsciousness most dangerous. And while he grasped at self-control, she came still nearer to the head of the steps and held out her small fair hand, mistaking his silence for leave-taking.

"Good night; and I thank you for coming. I am not used to so much consideration."

Her accents were unsure when she would have made them most certain, with her movement the handkerchief fell from her girdle to his feet. Mechanically Lestrangle recovered the bit of linen, and felt it lie wet in his fingers. Wet—

"Emily!" he cried abruptly, and sprang the brief step between them. Her white, terrified face turned to him in the moonlight, but he saw her eyes. And seeing, he kissed her.

The moment left no time for speech. Some one was coming down the drawing-room toward the long windows. Dick's impatient whistle sounded shrilly from the park. Panting, quivering, Emily drew from the embrace and fled within.

She had no doubt of Lestrangle, no question of his serious meaning—he had that force of sincerity which made his silence more convincing than the protestations of others. But alone in her room she laid her cheek against the hand he had touched.

"I wish I had died in the convent," she cried to her heart. "I wish I had died before I made him unhappy too."

CHAPTER VII.

Morning found a pale and languid Emily across the breakfast table from Mr. French. Yet, by a contradiction of the heart, her pride in loving and being loved so overbore the knowledge that only sorrow could result to herself and Lestrangle, that her eyes shone wide and lustrous and her lips curved softly.

Mr. French was almost in high spirits.

"The boy was merely developing," he stated, over his grape-fruit. "I have been unjust to Richard. For two months Bailey has been talking of his interest in the business and attendance at the factory, but I was incredulous. Although I fancied I observed a change—have you observed a change in him, Emily?"

"Yes," Emily confirmed, "a very great change. He has grown up, at last."

"Ah? I cannot express to you how it gratifies me to have a French representative in my public; have you seen the morning journals?"

"I have just come down-stairs."

He picked up the newspaper beside him and passed across the folded page.

"All in readiness for Beach Contest," the head-lines ran. "Last big driver to arrive, Lestrangle is in Mercury camp with R. French, representative of Company."

And there was a blurred picture of a speeding car with driver and mechanic masked to goblinsque non-identity, with the legend underneath: "Darling Lestrangle, in his Mercury on the Georgia course."

"Next year I shall make him part owner. It was always my poor brother's desire to have the future name still French and French. He was not thinking of Richard then; he had hope of—"

Emily lifted her gaze from the picture, recalled to attention by the break.

"Or?" she echoed vaguely.

"Of one who is unworthy thought. Richard has redeemed our family from extinction; that is at rest. He paused for an instant. "My dear child, when you are married and established, I shall be content."

THIS WOMAN A GC J VULCAN

Mrs. Anna M. Albrecht, a Resident of New York, Becomes an Expert Blacksmith.

New York.—Woman has crossed the last frontier of man's trades. Mrs. Anna M. Albrecht of this city is the successful invader, having won the distinction of being the only woman blacksmith in New York city and possibly the pioneer of American women in that trade.

Mrs. Albrecht is a sturdy woman of 35, the mother of three children and the chief aid and assistant of her husband in his smithy. She can beat rivets, set wheel bands, straighten spokes and set shoes with the skill and strength of any Vulcan.

Mrs. Albrecht has been a blacksmith for two years. She came to the aid of her husband when he was unable to accomplish all the work that he had to do and yet could not afford the pay of an assistant. Mrs. Albrecht, although new to the work, caught the trick of it so well that many of her husband's customers have insisted that she do the jobs they bring. For this reason she remains in the smithy, although, with her aid, Albrecht has prospered so well that he now employs two assistant blacksmiths and wagon repairers. She used to be in the shop from early morning till sunset, but now she passes only a few hours there every day.

Mrs. Albrecht does not regard her trade as unusual for a woman.

"It seemed the only thing to do," she said. "My husband needed help and so I helped him. I used to notice people stopping to watch me as they passed, but I soon forgot I was attracting attention. There's no reason in the world why women shouldn't be blacksmiths if they're strong enough to wield the tools. There's no more skill required for it than for a good many tasks in housework, and practice makes perfect, you know."

The woman blacksmith's costume is not at all indicative of her amazing profession. At the anvil Mrs. Albrecht wears an old dark short skirt and a gingham dressing sacque with a low, frilled collar and sleeves cut off above the elbow. Her forearms are well developed through her use of the heavy tools. She says that she likes the work and that she will continue at it as long as there is a demand for her services.

"If you continue to dress in that convent fashion," said the other girl, glancing admiringly at her own over-trimmed gown, "dress your hair in that absurd simple style, never put any color on your face when you look ghastly pale, and not make the least effort to please the men—"

"Thank you for your well-meant advice, but the men I'm likely to meet in this business are not the men I care to know socially," commenced Harriett, who was interrupted by a young boy who said: "Mr. Marston wishes to see you in his private office immediately."

"Poor thing," said Nora to one of the girls as Harriett, shaking like an aspen leaf, started for the third floor. "She is so refined. I wanted to help her, but I guess she is going to lose her position. Only recently they lost all their money. It breaks her mother's heart that she has to work."

As Harriett entered the spacious office, Mr. Marston arose saying kindly: "Why are you trembling?"

"I'm sorry I didn't suit you," began Harriett, gaining courage.

"But you did. I know all about you. I've watched you since the first day you came. Grasped every opportunity to talk with you without making it evident. Now I want to ask you how would you like to become the owner of this store?"

"Sir," said Harriett, "how dare you ask me to come to your office to insult me?"

"I'm not insulting you. I'm asking you to marry me. I'm a lonely man, and I want you for my wife. Don't answer me; go home, talk it over with your mother, and all I ask is for you to give me a chance for us to become acquainted."

When Harriett left the office she had promised to "think it over."

"Are you going to leave?" asked Nora, when she appeared with her hat and cloak on.

"Yes. Some day you'll know why. If I should tell you today you'd never believe it any way, because I don't hardly believe it myself."

Kitchener in Bronze. The models for the proposed statue of Lord Kitchener at Calcutta have been approved by the committee. The statue itself will represent him in field marshal's uniform, mounted on his favorite charger. It will stand on a stone pedestal containing four bronze panels in bas-relief representing scenes from battles in which Lord Kitchener has taken part.

A Critical Employer

Pretty, winsome Harriett Lennox had been clerking at Marston's department store for nearly two months. Already she had lost the pretty color from her cheeks and she found it much harder to sell a waist than she imagined it could be when formerly she had the money to purchase whatever she desired.

"Did that woman buy the waist she was looking at?" questioned Nora.

"No, after I had wasted a quarter of an hour showing her everything in stock she said: 'These waists are beautiful, but I haven't the money, my dear.'"

"That's the way it is with those 'old hens,'" commented Nora. "They seem to have nothing on earth to do but to pester salesladies, and some women think because they have plenty of money it's their privilege to leave their manners at home."

"The very words 'lingerie waists' gives me a pain," admitted Harriett. "I'm weary of trying to make a thirty-six waist fit a woman who takes size forty-four, when we happen to be out of her size."

"No, madam," she said, turning around, "we haven't any blue chiffon waists with chenille trimming and gold braid. I'm sure she wouldn't buy one if we had it."

"What's the trouble with you? You seem so disheartened," asked Nora sympathetically.

"This is the first position I ever had, but I presume I can stand the customers. I try my best, but the way a girl is treated just because she has to earn her living is disgraceful."

"You're too haughty," advised Nora. "Be a little more agreeable. If the manager tells you to sell a waist for all silk, sell it for that, and don't explain to the would-be customer that it is only near-silk, sewed with near-silk thread, not made in a union shop, and that it is embroidered by machinery and not by hand."

"Possibly I'm wrong, but no difference what I do or say he, Mr. Marston, the proprietor, always finds fault when he goes by this department. Either the boxes aren't straight, or the waists are laid on the table crooked, or I should have made a sale; I went to lunch or came back too late. If my mother wasn't dependent upon me I'd leave this instant."

"Strange, Mr. Marston should be so critical. He is so full of business that he usually leaves the minor details to his managers. Cheer up, you'll get used to it twenty years from now; you'll even wonder that you noticed such things as impatient shoppers and critical employers."

"Twenty years from now, gracious! Don't mention waists in connection with the future to me. I'd like to waste my time that long selling waists marked down from $3 to $2.98, and others marked up from $2.98 to $3.98."

"If you continue to dress in that convent fashion," said the other girl, glancing admiringly at her own over-trimmed gown, "dress your hair in that absurd simple style, never put any color on your face when you look ghastly pale, and not make the least effort to please the men—"

"Thank you for your well-meant advice, but the men I'm likely to meet in this business are not the men I care to know socially," commenced Harriett, who was interrupted by a young boy who said: "Mr. Marston wishes to see you in his private office immediately."

"But you did. I know all about you. I've watched you since the first day you came. Grasped every opportunity to talk with you without making it evident. Now I want to ask you how would you like to become the owner of this store?"

"Sir," said Harriett, "how dare you ask me to come to your office to insult me?"

"I'm not insulting you. I'm asking you to marry me. I'm a lonely man, and I want you for my wife. Don't answer me; go home, talk it over with your mother, and all I ask is for you to give me a chance for us to become acquainted."

When Harriett left the office she had promised to "think it over."

CORN STALKS NOT GOOD FOR CATTLE

Veterinarian Says Cows Are Poisoned by Them When They Lay on Ground For a Time.

THEY REEL FROM EFFECTS

Merritt Nicholson, a well-known farmer southeast of the city, who has quite a reputation as a veterinarian, reports that a number of cases have come to his attention already of cows being victims of ergot poisoning, says the New Castle Times. This ailment is commonly termed "cornstalk poisoning" and is caused by cows eating cornstalks that have lain on the ground for some time and have dirt on them. The poison forms in this condition and when the cattle eat it they soon become sick.

The first symptoms noticed are when the cow acts as if she had just left a first class saloon and is filled up to the neck. She staggers like a drunken man and the condition continues to grow worse until the cow becomes mad and dashes hither and thither, noticing not where she is going. They have been known to attack men and horses, and in their worst condition are exceedingly dangerous.

Mr. Nicholson reports several cases where cows died before they could be given attention in the early stages of the disease. In another instance a cow, in rushing madly about, took a shoot for the barn, and not clearing the doorway tore off a horn, but did not seem to notice the pain, so great was the effect of the ergot poisoning.

"Best on Earth"

This is the verdict of R. J. Howell, Tracy, O., who bought Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for his wife. "Her case was worst I have ever seen, and looked like a sure case of consumption. Her lungs were sore and she coughed almost incessantly and her voice was hoarse and weak. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound brought relief at once and less than three bottles effected a complete cure."

"Bachelor Girls" Cherish Fond Hopes For 1912—Leap Year

It is only a few more days now until leap year, and many of our "bachelor girls" are looking forward to the year in which they are privileged to ask a man to become her husband.

There are a number of most excellent young women in Rushville and Rush county that think that they are old maids, but the real truth is that they are in their prime and are among the best in the land, but they feel that they have passed or are passing the age when they are the choice of the men. Some girls begin to think that they are becoming "maidenish" at the age of twenty-two, others at twenty-five, while others do not feel that they are becoming too old at thirty and even older, and this is why they look forward to leap year with a good deal of pleasure.

There are so many girls in Rushville that think they are beyond the age when they are the choice for marriage, that they have organized a "bachelor girls" society and when they get together, they have more real enjoyment than any other class of young women in the country.

Girls make a great mistake when they think that they are getting beyond the age when they are considered to be at the best marriageable age when they pass twenty-two, twenty-four, or even thirty. If you will take a good look around you and make a survey of the happy girls that enjoy life and are among the most select in the town and country, most of them have passed their twenty-fifth and even thirtieth year. If you will look over the ages of the girls in Rush county that have been united in marriage during the last year, more of them are beyond the age of twenty-two, and many of them near thirty, rather than younger, and all succeeded in getting good husbands, for there are a number of men that have passed the age of thirty that have become bachelors.

This is why leap year is looked forward to with so much pleasure. It will give these hesitating men a chance. Many of them are so cowardly that they can not arouse enough courage to ask a girl to become his wife, and now it will be made easy for him. Leap year comes but once in four years and it is a good thing that it does come around, for it gives the bachelor man a chance to take a wife that might, under other circumstances, cause him to lead a life of single blessedness all his life. It isn't a good thing to have so many bachelors and we have entirely too many of them in Rushville. In some countries, and it is being agitated in some States, that a tax shall be levied on all bachelors over a certain age. There is a good argument in favor of this and the time may come when it will become a law, either to compel them to get married or pay a tax.

In a little over a month from now, there will be bachelor parties, bachelor entertainments and other social events to which bachelor boys and bachelor girls will be the principal guests.

The country is prosperous and there are opportunities for a man that has settled down to a chosen vocation that is only wishing for leap year to come around, so that some changes will come to him to get a wife. The year nineteen hundred and twelve is full of promise and there will, in all probability, be many more marriages in Rush county during the next year than there has in the past.

How he Big Boobs Broke Turkey Market

The Sheriff of Nottingham was a poor figure compared with Mayor Shank of Indianapolis, says the Detroit News. In deed the Alcalde of Valladolid and the Calif of Bagdad must take back seats in the temple of romantic achievement while we consider the deeds of deering-do accomplished by the mayor of that dear old Indianapolis. They laughed him to scorn when he was elected. They set him down as a dub, a yap, a geek, a boob, a rube, an oaf, a gink, a dolt, an idiot, a goop, an ass and a mutt, and other matters of like character. But he came across with some horse-sense before his chair was well-warmed, and since then he has rivalled our own "Potato" Pingree in notriety and originality.

POISON PEN CASE IS OUT OF COURT

Defense Scores Under a Statute of 1789.

JUDGE DENOUNCED THE LAW

Declaring That Evidence Which Was Barred Under an Obsolete Statute Ought to Have Been Admitted, Judge McPherson of United States District Court Was Compelled to Rule For Defense in Famous Case.

Philadelphia, Dec. 12.—Charged with sending unsigned scurrilous letters through the mails to Rev. E. E. Snyder and others, Miss Harriet Dewitt of Easton, Pa., who was placed on trial before Judge McPherson of the United States district court, was declared not guilty. The trial came to a sudden and unlooked for end when, under an ancient and obsolete law, evidence on which the prosecution based its case was ruled out.

In ruling out the evidence Judge McPherson denounced the law and declared that the evidence was such that it should be admitted. He saw no reason why congress should compel the United States courts to operate in criminal cases under the laws of 1789, and then gave binding instructions to the jury. The government, upon the refusal of its evidence, abandoned the case.

This is the famous "poison pen" case, which several months ago startled the country and for several years has kept Easton apprehensive. Mr. Snyder as a young man was assigned the pastorate of Christ Lutheran church of Easton. He was unmarried and popular with the young women. For years Snyder and his friends were bombarded by anonymous letters, often of a vicious character, and eventually Miss Dewitt was arrested, charged with sending them. The grand jury returned a true bill and she was ordered for trial in the United States district court in this city.

DIDN'T CREDIT IT

Introduction of Darrow's Name in Bribe Hearing "Only Hearsay."

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 12.—Twice during the preliminary examination of Bert H. Franklin, former United States deputy marshal, on a charge of attempting to bribe a prospective juror in the J. B. McNamara case, the name of Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, was brought into the case by witnesses. In each instance the witness said he had understood from Franklin that Darrow had knowledge of what was being done. After Franklin had been bound over to appear for trial, bond being fixed at $10,000, statements were made by Darrow, District Attorney J. D. Fredricks and Franklin, the defendant.

The district attorney said there was nothing in the testimony to connect Darrow with the attempted bribery. He said that it was merely "hearsay evidence" at most, and not credible. Franklin said he had never mentioned Darrow's name to George N. Lockwood, the prospective juror, who it is charged he tried to bribe, or Robert F. Bain, who was passed as a juror.

McNamara's Spirit Broken.

San Francisco, Dec. 12.—Arrayed in their bran new striped suits, the McNamara brothers are now working in the jute mill at San Quentin prison. Both men have lost their defiant demeanor and seem broken in spirit. The dynamiters are given scant consideration by the other prisoners, and it is not improbable that they will receive rough treatment if a chance offers, as the convicts are bitter toward them.

Short but Optimistic.

Washington, Dec. 12.—President Taft left the White House about 10:30 o'clock last night and motored to the residence of John Hays Hammond, who gave a dinner in honor of the members of the League of Republican clubs. Mr. Taft made a short and optimistic speech there, in which he expressed the belief that the Republican ticket would be elected in the next campaign, whoever the candidate.

Thomas Ball, the sculptor, is dead at his home at Montclair, N. J. The works of Mr. Ball are shown in many cities of the United States.

GREAT ROW OVER BEAN SOUP

Put on Menu of Banquet to Visiting President, It Was Denounced as Plebeian.

Denver has been stirred to its depths by the disturbance over the menu for the president at a banquet. Seven hundred citizens have put up their dollars and taken their dress suits out of storage. As incense rises from mothballs and tar paper, the clangor of controversy fills the air. As the banquet is to be held at night, the arbiter elegantiarum is not called upon to decide whether full dress suits shall be worn in the daytime. Discussion rages around the soup. The rest of the menu is settled. So far as we can learn, it includes celery, cigarettes, olive oil, cigars, cake, "mille-high" cocktails, oysters, ice cream, lettuce salad, mashed potatoes, vegetables, cheese, radishes, nuts, broiled squab, beefsteak, crackers and champagne. So far so good. But when the husky, hearty mountaineers proposed to serve bean soup certain mollycoddles who had crept into the committee objected on the ground that it was distinctly plebeian. That is considered a terrible accusation in Denver, where recherche is an insult and creme de menthe a crime. "Bean soup is good enough for any man," spoke up the natives, "and no one who turns up his nose at it is fit to be the president of the plain people." At first, we gather from the confused accounts, the tenderfoots insisted upon consomme royale aux petits pois, but at last agreed to compromise on cream of tomato.

Do they contend that the tomato is more aristocratic than the bean? It is an insult to Boston, a blow at Beverly. Look at Massachusetts—there she stands, with a president on the one hand and a pet of beans on the other. If this be plebeian, make the most of it!—Baltimore Sun.

SHE HUSHED KING EDWARD

How Alice Nielsen Reproved His Majesty for Speaking While She Was Singing.

One evening the duchess of Manchester entertained in honor of the late King Edward. Miss Alice Nielsen, the American opera singer, was present and sang. Among others there was a request for Tosti's "Goodbye to Summer," then in the first flush of its great popularity.

With the composer at the piano, the first stanza went with no strange or unusual occurrence, but while Tosti was playing the soft interlude to the second stanza, the king turned to one of his party with some remark, and his sonorous bass sounded out sharply through the room against the soft harp-like chords of the piano.

With exquisite daring, Miss Nielsen looked straight at his majesty and began the line: "Hush—then an ominous pause—" 'tis a voice!" By this time the royal listener was all attention and looking straight into a pair of eyes dancing with ill-suppressed merriment. There was a moment of suspense, when the king saved the joke by starting the laugh in which the company joined. The royal guest took his gentle reprimand with true gallantry—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

Spencer and Free Libraries.

Ruskin's dislike for public libraries was shared to the full by Herbert Spencer. When the trustees of the British Library of Political Science asked Spencer to present his works to the library, he replied: "From time to time I have had various applications akin to the one you make, and have in all cases declined compliance. I disapprove of free libraries altogether, the British museum included, believing that in the long run they are mischievous rather than beneficial; as we see clearly in the case of local and municipal free libraries which, instead of being places for study, have become places for reading trashy novels, worthless papers, and learning the odds. I no more approve of free libraries than I approve of free bakeries."

Interesting Point.

At a spiritualistic meeting in Wichita the spirit of Elijah Crosser was called for. Elijah Crosser had died there many years before, but was remembered for his immense stature, six feet five inches. A voice in the darkness said he was Elijah. "Are you in heaven?" asked an old-timer. "Yes," came the answer. "Are you an angel, like?" "Yes." The questioner paused, evidently having exhausted his fund of questions, and then suddenly inquired: "What do you measure from tip to tip, like?"

Professional Chaperons.

In a girls' finishing school in New York they have professional chaperons who do nothing but take young women out, walk them around and fetch them back again. They take their charges to trains and meet them at trains. They are paid, not by the week or month, but by the job, so such an assignment. And the curious thing about it is that they are bonded. They are actually bonded. The girls themselves have never been able to find out why they should be bonded.

NEW DETAILS IN DYNAMITE CASE.

Iron Workers Give Up More Records to State.

"IMMUNITY" STORY IS DENIED

H. S. Hockin, Secretary of the Iron Workers' Union, Scouts Tale That He Had Arranged to "Tell All He Knew" to the Government, Though He Has Turned Over the Remaining Records to the Officers.

Indianapolis, Dec. 12.—Through an arrangement with representatives of the Erectors' association, H. S. Hockin, who succeeded John McNamara as secretary of the iron workers' union, has delivered to the United States authorities books and papers of the iron workers' organization that were overlooked when the building was searched soon after J. J. McNamara's arrest, and it is believed that the surrender was made in pursuance of an arrangement that guarantees Hockin immunity from arrest. The United States district attorney says he has made no deal with Hockin, but there is reason to believe that others, acting for him, have promised immunity if Hockin tells all he knows.

The books and papers were removed secretly from the iron workers' offices in the Central Life building and were taken in taxis direct to the federal building. United States Marshal Schmidt was present when the records were taken from the vaults and placed in the taxis. Three taxicab loads were taken. That Hockin was in the offices at the time and that he was the man who admitted the searchers was learned from the same source.

Several days ago the story became current that Hockin was to "tell all he knew" to the government. Hockin denied to a reporter that anything of the kind was contemplated. He has since denied this repeatedly.

"I do not know anything about the case," he said in reply to a query as to whether he was making arrangements to "come through." "I am not guilty of anything, so why should I fear the federal investigation?"

No Promise of Immunity.

District Attorney Miller also has denied several times that he had any knowledge of overtures having been made by the government either to or by Hockin to tell anything about the case or to turn over any evidence. In various other quarters the report was denied. It has developed that the negotiations which have been made with Hockin were without knowledge of the United States district attorney. This was done because the district attorney throughout the case has shown no disposition to lend a kindly ear to any suggestions of immunity to anyone. With this attitude of the district attorney known negotiations were handled with the iron workers' official in a way that would keep the district attorney absolutely free from any suggestion that "immunity" or "light penalties" would be granted.

A search is being made for Harry Underwood, the iron worker, who some months ago made affidavit that he placed the explosive under the new French Lick hotel after the visit of Hockin to French Lick, at which time the latter is declared to have threatened trouble if union labor were not substituted for the non-union men employed on the building. Hockin says that he once knew an iron worker named Underwood, but he does not remember his first name. It seems that Underwood belonged to a Louisville union, but after his arrest at French Lick and confession to Detective Morgan he fled and no one seems to know where he now is.

Detective Burns has reached here and will remain for several days to assist in the federal grand jury investigation.

"Do you believe the American Federation of Labor has made a true accounting of the amount collected and disbursed by the McNamara defense fund?" Burns was asked.

"I most certainly do not," Burns spoke emphatically. "Organized labor should demand a strict accounting of every copper that was paid into the McNamara defense fund. If they do this they will ascertain that all the money was not devoted to legitimate purposes."

WILL ASK BOARD FOR REVOCATION

Some times, it is pointed out, "blind tigers," which the name suggests, are very elusive and difficult to find. If such a man is suspected of operating a "blind tiger" and no evidence can be obtained, all that is necessary is to see if he has a government license to sell liquor and holds no county, city or State license. In that event this evidence is introduced and if proved, it is sufficient to convict on a "blind tiger" charge even though there is no evidence of an illegal sale.

Attorneys recall that Seward made a false affidavit in taking out a liquor license. In taking oath and swearing to the facts in the application he made six misstatements.

In one place he states that he is "the bona fide sole lessee," and in another, "I am the sole owner of such business." At still another point he swears that "no other person, firm or corporation has any interest directly or indirectly, therein," and at another place he swears, "the license is desired for my own use and benefit and not for the use and benefit of any other person, firm or corporation."

At another place in the application he swears "I have not, directly or indirectly, solicited, received or accepted, and during the continuation of such license will not, directly or indirectly, solicit, receive or accept from any person, firm or corporation engaged in the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor any gifts, loan of money, furniture, fixtures or other assistance of any kind."

Attorneys recall that the Proctor law passed by the last legislature provides that if any applicant makes a false affidavit in obtaining a license such license shall be revoked.

With this statute in mind "dry" workers are setting about to prepare a motion to be filed in the auditor's office and to be presented to the county commissioners at their next meeting asking that the license be revoked.

The methods pursued in obtaining the license for the seventh saloon in Rushville were rather revolting in their nature. It will be remembered that the applicant and his attorney knew full well, when they appealed the case to the circuit court after the commissioners had refused a license on the theory that Rushville has all of the saloons allowed under the law, that the local court would not place the desired construction on the law and for that reason took an appeal to the Fayette circuit court at once.

Judge Gray of Fayette county is a Democratic stalwart, but even he handled the case with gloved hands. He is a brother of Congressman Finly Gray. He heard the evidence and apparently, while he had the case under advisement, decided that it was no case for him to return a decision on. He called in a Franklin attorney who saw the law as the local attorney did and the commissioners were ordered to grant the license, which they had to do.

MAKING GREAT STRIDES

Salvation Army Proposes to Serve
500 With Dinner.

The local Salvation Army Corps is making great strides toward those five hundred dinners which they expect to donate to the poor people of the city Christmas day. A kettle on the downtown street corner Saturday realized $2.60. Money boxes have been placed in several stores to receive donations for this work. People in the country who desire to donate things to the Army are requested to leave them at Spivey's grocery. Capt. Cook's telephone number is 3488 and calls there will bring some one to any point in the city to collect donations.
